It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended,
But the glory belongs to our ancestors.—PLUTARCH.

PREFACE

"And the Lord spake unto Moses saying, take ye the sum of all the congregation of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names.....

"And they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers..... As the Lord commanded Moses, so he numbered them." (Num. 1:1-2, 18-19.)

"Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations; ask thy father and he will shew thee, thy elders, and they will tell thee." (Deut. 32:7).

"These sought their register among those who were reckoned by genealogy." (Ezra 2:62; Neh. 7:64).

The oldest institution among men, of which we have any knowledge, is the family. God created Adam and Eve, and planted them eastward in the garden, and from that day to this, the fundamental condition of all human society centers in the family. When that fails, everything fails. Under these circumstances it is clearly evident that the first duty, and highest duty, of all wise statesmanship, is to protect, encourage, and purify the family. The Bible, as a whole, is made up almost entirely of incidents in the history of a single family. A nation is simply an aggregation of families. When the family is weak, the nation is weak. If this be true, then it cannot be unwise for a family to consider its conditions and history. In fact, it would seem to be its highest duty to do so, and to put away everything that weakens it, and encourage everything that strengthens it.

In this free and independent country of ours, where the fundamental law of the nation declares that all men are created free and equal, it has been the habit of our people to misapply this declaration to the conditions of nature, instead of legislation, where it belongs. The result has been that to many people it is almost a sin to have had a grandfather. This certainly is a grave mistake. Everyone who considers the subject seriously must know, and every student of biology DOES know, that the governing forces of every life are to a very large extent the forces of heredity.

"For we are the same our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen—
We drink the same stream and view the same sun,
And run the same courses our fathers have run."

In short, we are borne upon the currents of a stream whose fountain head lies far back in the infinite past. We may deflect this stream somewhat; we may purify it somewhat; we may, by skill and courage, evade its rocks and whirlpools somewhat; but nevertheless down that current we must go, and what we get we must get within its ever-flowing waters.

The questions of heredity, therefore, are serious questions—serious to us, and serious to those who shall come after us. If the stream be a bad one, let us endeavor to make it better for our children. If we find an ugly rock in its channel, we can at least mark its location as a warning to those who shall come after us. In this light, therefore, Genealogy is not foolishness, but wisdom. In this light, Genealogy is "Philosophy teaching by example." In this spirit we should consider the facts of our family history.

Among European nations, outside of the Romans, family names, or surnames, are of comparatively recent origin. The most ancient names that have come down to us, as, for instance, those of the early Hebrews, are distinguished for their simplicity, a single word only constituting the name, as, Adam, Noah, Abraham, Moses, David, Solomon. In order to particularize, the name of the father was sometimes added, as, David son of Jesse, or the place from whence he came, as, Jesus of Nazareth.

The Egyptians, Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians and Greeks had no surnames.

Surnames have originated in various ways. Some are derived from the names of places, others from offices and professions, from personal peculiarities, from the Christian or proper name of the father. Other derivations are from the performance of certain actions, from objects in the animal, mineral, and vegetable world, and from accidental circumstances of every varied character.

It is impossible to fix a date at which time names became stationary, or began to descend hereditarily. According to Camden, surnames began to be taken up in France about the year 1000 A.D., and in England about the time of the Norman Conquest (1066) or a very little before, under Edward the Confessor. In Ireland surnames were not common until 1465, when, under the reign of Edward IV, it was enacted by statute that every Irishman, dwelling within English jurisdiction, should take a surname. In Wales surnames were still later. In fact, outside the Latin races in Europe, surnames did not become common until after the discovery of America, and in Holland they were not universal until within the beginning of the eighteenth century. Let us take, as an example, the ancestral line of Sarah Johnson, wife of the first William Coolbaugh, and grandmother of our own Eleanor Coolbaugh Allen of Wysox. This lineage is given in outline in the Coolbaugh Genealogy, pages 9 and 10, and in full form in the author's companion volume, 162 ALLIED FAMILIES, pages 78-82. It will be noted that the American progenitor of this family had five different designations, Jan Wouters van der Bosch, Jan Wouters van Bosch, Jan Woutersen, Jan Wooters, and John Wooters, which, translated into English means, John son of Walter of the Bush Town. He was born in 1638 and came in the ship FAITH to New Amsterdam (now New York) in Feb. 1659, and settled at Flatbush, N. Y. His son Jacob, next in line, was variously known as Jacob Wooters or Jacob Janson, the former indicating the growing tendency toward a surname, the latter carrying out the Dutch system of patronymics, or Christian name of the father. Jacob lived on Staten Island and at Branford, Conn., for a time, and finally settled at Amwell, in Hunterdon county, N. J., near the Coolbaughs. His son, Cornelius Janszen or Johnson, also lived at Amwell, and here, about 1750, his daughter Sarah became the wife of William Coolbaugh. Thus we find, among our own progenitors, only about a hundred and fifty miles distant, and scarcely two centuries ago, a surname finally becoming settled in a family.

In Scotland, Mac meant son, and hence MacGowan, son of Gowan; in Ireland, O'Neil was son of Neil; in Welch, Ap Howel was son of Howel; among the Normans Fitz William was son of William.

So, in some way, at some time, the name ALLEN originated.

The Name Of

ALLEN

Its Derivation & Antiquity

The name Allen, with common variants such as Allyn, Allin, Alling, &c, is very ancient, and is supposed by some to be of Saxon origin, and to have been originally written Alwyne, signifying "beloved of all." It is a very common name in England, frequently appearing in history, and almost invariably spelled Allen. It seems probable that the name came from the Athelings, meaning a person of royal blood—contracted Allings, Allens—a dark brunette race of the Angles, who came with the Saxons from Germany to Britain in the sixth century. (Cf. Hoagland's 162 ALLIED FAMILIES, Royal Lineages, pp. 5-8, 15, 16.) They drove out the Scots and took possession of the country, giving it the name of Angle-land, or England, and by their intermixture we have the Anglo-Saxon race. Burke's ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HERALDRY gives forty different crests for Allen, four for Allyn, and one for Allin.

Other etymologists trace the name to a corruption of the Latin Ael-ianus, which signifies sunbright. The Slavonic Aland means wolf-dog, hound. The Gaelic Aluinn signifies handsome, elegant, lovely. The Irish Alun, fair, beautiful. The English Allan and Allen, all running, all conquering. The name is a personal one, and first borne by the bard of Britain, and came into prominence at the time of the Conquest (1066), when the chief general of the Norman army of William the Conqueror was Allan, Duke of Brittany. The family seat was in the counties of Durham and Essex. Frank R. Holmes in his DIRECTORY OF THE ANCESTRAL HEADS OF NEW ENGLAND FAMILIES, 1620-1700 (pp. iii-iv), lists 45 emigrants, heads of distinct families in the New England colonies before 1700. Jesse Allen, patriarch of the family here under consideration, could very well have been a descendant of one of these numerous founders of families. There were many settlers who came from New England into New Jersey during the colonial period. The assertion that he was a nephew of Ethan Allen, the Revolutionary hero, seems to have no basis in fact.

The history of this family is in every respect worthy of preservation. All the way down, in every generation, there were men and women of character and influence in the community in which they lived.

A thoughtful writer has very truly said: "The genealogy of a family should consist not merely of names in the line of descent. It should present biographical sketches of those who ought to be held in everlasting remembrance, thus at once gratifying a natural feeling of the heart and honoring those who have showed themselves worthy of honor. There is an illustration of this in the genealogical tables of the First Book of Chronicles: 'And Jabez was more honorable than his brethren.' And because he was more honorable he was distinguished by a biographical sketch, while only the mere names of the others are given. At the same time it should be remembered that the most prominent characters are not always the most worthy, and many in obscure positions have deserved from mankind a grateful recognition which they have never received."

It is not easy to compute the amount of time spent in the difficult, yet exceedingly pleasant employment of gathering and preserving these mementoes of our worthy ancestors. To the many friends who have furnished family records and biographical sketches we are greatly indebted, and trust they will find ample recompense in the assurance that present and future generations will appreciate the aid they have rendered in so good a work.

Many people spend considerable sums in erecting valuable but silent tombstones to honor and perpetuate the memory of those who have passed away. On the other hand a family history will give a vivid and perpetual picture of all their kinsmen and guarantee that their memory will live now and in future days, not only in the hearts of their grandchildren, but in the hearts of all who can feel proud to be of the same descent. Possessors of one of these little volumes will realize more and more that the records here preserved will increase in value and usefulness to them with the lapse of the years and the advent of a new generation who might otherwise be lost in partial, if not complete ignorance of them, or be unable to procure them for love nor money.

The compiler has on hand many records and information relating to other descendants of Jesse Allon. Perhaps the time may not be too far distant when this information can be incorporated with what we have here, into a larger volume.

Additional copies of this publication may be procured by addressing the compiler.

I. JESSE ALLEN, whose family history we take up in this volume, was born at Morristown, N. J., about 1754. At this writing we have no information as to his parentage or other family connexions. A careful search of contemporary records might well yield interesting results. As indicated in the prefatory remarks, this writer would be inclined to look first for a New England origin for him.

He enlisted in the Continental army early in the struggle for American independence, and served throughout the conflict. He was in the expedition under Montgomery into Canada, and stood within a few feet of that gallant officer when he fell at Quebec. He was in many engagements and Indian skirmishes, serving in the Company of Captain Jacobus S. Bruyn, under Col. James Clinton, New York Continentals. He was at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

It was probably during the war that he became acquainted with, and married, ELIZABETH EIKLOR, of Catskill, N. Y., whose parents were Holland people. She was a sister of Frederick Eiklor, who followed Mr. Allen to Wysox in 1786, and in 1798 located at Rome, where a number of his descendants are still to be found.

Mr. Allen came to Wysox in 1784 in quest of a new home. He selected the East Towanda flats, worked the season making improvements, and returned in the autumn for his family. Upon his arrival next spring, he found his location occupied by Roswell Franklin. So he went to the lower end of the Wysox valley, took possession of and subsequently purchased all the land comprised between Wysox creek and York's narrows.

He came from the head of the Susquehanna in a canoe with his effects, while his wife rode a horse all the way, following the Indian trail, and carrying an infant, not many weeks old, who afterwards became the late Peter Allen of Rome. He occupied his purchase a number of years. After clearing and improving many acres, he planted the first orchard in the Wysox valley with seeds brought with him from Catskill. He sold his improvements and lived for a time on the old Coolbaugh property, and also on the Lent place at Lake Wysauking, which for many years was known as Allen's pond.

In 1800 he moved to the Genesee country, in central New York State, where he remained a short time, and then returned to Lake Wysauking, where he spent the remainder of his days.

He was a stirring, impulsive man, a strong supporter of the Presbyterian church, and one of the most zealous promoters of the formation of the old church at Wysox, which was organized as early as 3 Oct. 1791. This is the oldest church society in this part of Pennsylvania north of Wilkes-Barre. Mrs. Allen was also a member.

Mr. Allen d. 24 June 1824, in his 70th year, and his wife d. 6 Sep. 1845 in her 90th year, and both rest in the old Lake Wysauking cemetery, on the hillside overlooking that beautiful sheet of water.

The children of Jesso and Elizabeth (Eiklor) Allen were:

- *1. WILLIAM, b. 18 Dec. 1781, m. Eleanor Coolbaugh, of whom further.
2. PETER, b. 1784, m. Elizabeth Ridgway, d. at Rome 15 Nov. 1852
3. ANDREW, d. unm.
4. ELIZABETH, b. 1790, m. Hon. Arunah Wattles, d. 21 Jan. 1863 at Rome
5. MARY, b. 1793, m. Benjamin Dresser, d. at Myersburg
6. JOHN, b. 18 Aug. 1793, m. Caroline Wattles, sister of Arunah, d. at Wysox 26 May 1872.
7. CLOE, bp. Wysox, 4 July 1795, d. y.
8. PHEBE, b. 8 Oct. 1796, m. Moses Moody, d. at Rome 1 Jan. 1876.
9. DAVID, b. 22 Feb. 1798, m. Sarah Coolbaugh, dau. of William and Susanna (Shoemaker) Coolbaugh of Wysox, double cousin of William's wife, d. at Lake Wysauking 26 July 1821 and is buried there.

WILLIAM ALLEN (No. 1) eldest son of Jesse and Elizabeth (Eiklor) Allen of Wysox, b. 18 Dec. 1781, came with his father from Catskill to Wysox in 1785. He was an ardent supporter of the old Federalist party, but in 1815 he was Independent candidate for Sheriff of Bradford county. In 1797 there was a prospect of war with France. On 2 June 1798 Gov. Mifflin issued a circular addressed to the militia officers of the state, requesting that the militia be enrolled, organized, equipped, and put in condition for active service, if they should be needed. William Allen was one of those who volunteered for duty at this time. But their services were not required. Mrs. W. A. Young of Waverly, N. Y., has what is believed to be his sword. In 1814 Mr. Allen purchased a fulling and clothing mill at Myersburg from Jacob Bell, and operated it for some time. He d. 5 Apr. 1859. He had m. 27 Mar. 1803, ELEANOR COOLBAUGH, b. 26 Oct. 1782, d. 18 Nov. 1861, dau. of Moses and Hannah (Schoonmaker or Shoemaker) Coolbaugh of Wysox. Mrs. Allen's father and grandfather were both patriots of the Revolution, the former having come from Shawnee-On-The Delaware to Wysox in 1789, bringing his family up the Susquehanna from Kingston in a Durham boat, which were large, flat-bottomed boats propelled with long poles. Moses Coolbaugh had served in the Northampton county militia in the Revolution, while his father, William Coolbaugh, and several brothers, fought with the New Jersey militia from Hunterdon county. Their history and records are fully covered in the author's companion volume, COOLBAUGH FAMILY IN AMERICA, pages 6-13. Johannes Koelback or Coolbach, undoubtedly the father of William, is on record at New York City as early as 1724, and was a settler at Harlingen, Somerset Co., N. J., in 1727. The lineage of the Shoemaker or Schoonmaker family is traced in the author's book, 162 ALLIED FAMILIES, pages 111-113. They date back to Hendrick Jochenssen Schoonmaker, a lieutenant in the Dutch West India Company at New York as early as 1654, who settled at Albany. His grandson Benjamin was one of the earliest settlers along the Delaware river in Monroe county, Pa., being of record there as early as 1740. His father-in-law, Nicholas DePuy, had come to this vicinity as far back as 1724, and is popularly conceded by historians to have been the very first permanent settler in all northern Pennsylvania. Full information pertaining to all these ancestral lines of the Allen family are to be found in the volume 162 ALLIED FAMILIES, already referred to. Other distaff lines will be found under the names of Benham (pp. 45-47), DePuy (59-60), Gano (61-62), Johnson (78-82), Manbrut (85), Mead (88), Roosa (103-4), and Wynkoop (126-7).

William Allen served as constable of Wysox township in 1806, and the following incident took place during his term of office. There was an old hermit named Mathias Fencelor who lived in a cabin on the property now owned by Smith A. Forbes, about a mile above Myersburg. He was found dead by two young men who chanced to pass that way. The youths went into the hewed log house where they found the old man lifeless and cold on his bunk of hemlock boughs and skins. In the meantime Moses Coolbaugh, Justice of the Peace, prepared to hold an inquest. While the jury was being summoned, Willard Green of Gillett's Bridge volunteered to stay and guard the dead man. It was late in the evening when the justice, constable, and jury arrived. The constable, with a lantern, led the way, and, opening the door, a voice called out sepulchrally,

"Voici le vous, Monsieur!" to the consternation and affright of the constable, who beat a precipitate retreat from the door. However, he was reassured as he beheld Mr. Green rise up and laugh, instead of, as he supposed, the defunct.

Said someone to Green, "Why, were you not afraid to lie there?"

"Afraid! Why should I be afraid of a man dead whom I did not fear while living!"

The Children of William and Eleanor (Coolbaugh) Allen were:

11. MOSES, b. 7 Feb. 1804, d. y.
12. ELLEN, and
13. MARTIN, (twins), b. 26 Dec. 1805, d. y.
14. MOSES COOLBAUGH, b. 21 Mar. 1807, m. Electa Bennett
15. ELIZA, b. 21 May 1809, m. Benjamin Bennett
16. WILLIAM BURR, b. 19 Oct. 1811, d. unm. 30 May 1858
17. FERDINAND, b. 30 Sep. 1812, m. Nancy Mullison of Tunkhannock and lived mostly at Wysox. He built the house on part of the homestead, now occupied by Daniel Covency. He d. at Wysox, 21 May 1888.
18. POLLY, b. 21 Apr. 1815, m. Henry Passmore, d. at Wysox, 20 July 1880.

MOSES COOLBAUGH ALLEN (No. 14) son of William and Eleanor (Coolbaugh) Allen of Wysox, b. 21 Mar. 1807, d. 7 Dec. 1876, and is buried at Wysox. He m. ELECTA BENNETT, dau. of Benjamin and Betsey (Abbott) Bennett of Durell, Pa., who d. 30 Apr. 1871. They lived at Wysox in a house on the Coolbaugh farm, torn down by the present owner, G. B. Smeck, in 1948.

The progenitors of Electa Bennett Allen also participated in the stirring events associated with the establishing of the Wyoming settlements on the Susquehanna. Amos Bennett, her grandfather, lived in a log house there at the time of the Wyoming massacre, 3 July 1778. During the progress of the battle a party of Indians came near, and were discovered. One of Mr. Bennett's daughters, out of curiosity, opened the door, but was instantly snatched back into the house, and the door reclosed. Scarcely had the inquisitive girl been dragged inside the house when a bullet struck the doorpost where she had stood only a moment before. About the year 1785 Amos Bennett moved his family from Orange Co., N. Y., to Wyalusing, Pa., and in 1791 came on to Durell, settling on the Storrs farm, and giving his name to the creek there, which is still known as Bennett creek, and where he built a tubmill at the falls in Cathedral glen near the residence of the late Jesse E. Coolbaugh.

- 141. ELLEN E., b. 21 July 1830, m. William Wallace Allis of Allis Hollow, Pa., and d. at Stockton, Kan., 20 Nov. 1881.

JESSE EUGENE ALLEN (No. 1436) son of John A. and Mary (Bartlett) Allen of Wysox, b. there 27 Oct. 1879, attended the common schools. He began life for himself as a farm hand, later taking up the carpenter's trade with F. W. Herdick of Rome. For some time he and his brother Claude were in the carpentering business together. Our subject then entered the employ of the Lehigh Valley railroad company. He became foreman of the carpentering gang in 1917.

On 28 June 1903, he was united in marriage with ALICE CROWLEY, dau. of Eugene and Susan (Killduf) Crowley of Myersburg, b. 3 Dec. 1880, of Irish lineage. For some years Mr. Allen was a member of Wysox Lodge, I.O.O.F., and of Wysauking Grange, P. of H. Politically, the family favor the Democratic party, tho Mr. Allen always supported the man whom he believed best suited for the office. He attended the Presbyterian church, while his wife, who was reared in the precepts of the Roman Catholic faith, is a member of SS. Peter & Paul church at Towanda. The Allen family are well known and highly regarded in Towanda, Wysox and adjoining communities. Mr. Allen d. 19 July 1942, and is buried at Wysox. Mrs. Allen, since the death of her husband, has continued to occupy their comfortable and well-furnished home on South Fourth street in Towanda.

CLAUDE MOSES ALLEN (No. 1439) son of John A. and Mary (Bartlett) Allen, was born at Wysox, 21 Nov. 1885, and grew to manhood in that community, receiving what schooling he had in the local schools. Being one of the youngest of a large family, he commenced life for himself at an early age. When he was about seventeen, he worked one year in the lumber woods at Laquin, Pa., when the lumber industry there was first opened up. He then commenced working at the carpenter's trade, and continued in the same until the time of his death, 19 Nov. 1942, which was caused by a fall from an old tobacco shed on the Wurtenberg farm at Wysox, which he was dismantling and repairing. He was buried in the ancestral cemetery at Lake Wysauking. He was first in the employ of F. W. Herdick of Rome for four years, and then with the Lehigh Valley railroad company two years. In 1913 he purchased the old George Spencer place, near the outlet of Lake Wysauking, where he made his home the remainder of his lifetime. When he first took possession of this place it looked very unpromising indeed. But he plied his trade, and soon made for himself one of the most attractive homes in the neighborhood, including a porch all the way around, and numerous other improvements.

On 17 Dec. 1910, our subject was united in the bonds of matrimony with ADELAIDE BULL, dau. of Emerson Taylor and Frances E. (Beebe) Bull of Lake Wysauking, b. 9 Sep. 1888 on the old Bull homestead east of the lake. She was the great-granddau. of John Bull who came to Wysox from Orange Co., N. Y., in 1797 and settled on Pond Hill in 1802.

Mr. Allen was first a member of Rummerfield Lodge, number 1143, I.O.O.F., but when Wysox Lodge, number 1152, was organized, he became a charter member. In matters of a political nature, Mr. Allen favored the Republican party.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF 162 ALLIED FAMILIES

Including Royal Lineages, Revolutionary Journals,
And a Register of the Marriages and Deaths of the Pioneers.

By EDWARD C. HOAGLAND

This collection of records, which is the author's second venture into the publishing world, contains the results of careful research covering a period of nearly fifteen years. In it will be found the ancestral lines of a good share of our oldest and most highly respected families; tracing them back many generations into the colonial period, and often starting the very ship on which the first ancestor arrived. Two principal lines of descent from Charlemagne, Alfred the Great and William the Conqueror, down through the centuries are also included. The marriage register contains over 4000 names, and the deaths well over 2000. Such a collection is invaluable to the genealogist. The whole is alphabetically arranged and provided with a comprehensive index. The Revolutionary journals give eye-witness accounts of the Wyoming massacre, and the obituaries recount the experiences of many a patriot of the war for independence.

The book contains genealogies of the following families:

Ackley, Alexander, Allen, Allgar, Allyn, Anjou, Arnold, Auveranches, Baldwin, Bartram, Bayeux, Beauchamp, Beaumont, Belesme, Bell, Bellmont, Benham, Bergen, Bigod, Booth, Boyse, Bradley, Brown, Bryan, Bushnell, Carpenter, Clare, Clinton, Cole, Collins, Coolbaugh, Coventry, Cowell, Curtiss, Daggett, DePuy, Dutton, Eilenberger, Fitz-Geoffrey, Fortner, Gano, Gaylord, Geer, Grant, Griswold, Groves, Gulick, Hawley, Hickox, Hinman, Hitchcock, Hoagland, Holland, Howard, Hubbell, Humphreville, Huntingdon, Hurd, Hurlbut, Johnson, Jones, Lane, Lester, Leybourne, Limesi, Lord, Louvane, Mal-, Manbrut, Manwarring, Marechal, Marsh, Mar-

Stanley, Stanton, Stebbins, Stevens, Stiles,

Stone, Strong, Talvis, Titherton, Toni, Umberfield, VanPelt, Walker, Warren, Wellman, Wells, Wigton, Wynkoop, York, Zouche.
